

Appendix C

References

Green J – Advances in Psychiatric Treatment 2004, 10 241-242. Priscilla & Alderson's research shows that children as young as 10 years can make complex treatment decisions involving life and death (Addison (1992)

Alderson P 1992 - In the Genes or In the Stars? Children's competence to consent. Journal of Medical Ethics 18, 119-124.

Grisso, T (1986) – Evaluating Competencies: Forensic Assessments and Instruments New York: Plenum

Grisso, T and Appelbaum P S (1995) The McArthur Treatment Competence Study. III. Abilities of patients to consent to psychiatric and medical treatment. Law and Human Behaviour, 19, 149-173.

Grisso, T and Appelbaum P S (1998) Assessing competence to consent to treatment: A Guide for Physicians and other Health Professionals. New York: Oxford University Press.

Shaw, M (2001) Competence and Consent to Treatment in Children and Adolescents. Advances in Psychiatric Treatment, 7, 150-159

Wong, J., Clare, Ifel. C.H., Dunn, M., F L (1999) Capacity to make health care decisions, its importance in Clinical Practice. Psychological Medicine, 29, 43-446

White, R, Harbour, A, Williams, R, (2004) Safeguarding for Young Minds. Young People and Protective Legislation, Second Edition – Gaskell publications

Shooter, M – Editorial, Title: The Soul of Caring, in Advances in Psychiatric Treatment, Volume 11, 239-240

Sarkov S (2011) Advances in Psychiatric Treatment – Vol 17 5-11. In the Twilight Zone: Adolescent Capacity in the Criminal Justice Arena.

Grisso T (2011) Advances in Psychiatric Treatment – Vol 17 – 12-14 Inconsistencies in legal and scientific perspective – on adolescent's capacities.

McCabe, M A (1996) involving children and adolescents in medical decision making: Developmental and Clinical considerations. Journal of Paediatric Psychology, 21 505-516.

Pearce, J (1994) (Consent to Treatment during Childhood. The Assessment of Competence and Avoidance of Conflict. British Journal of Psychiatry 165, 713-716)

Rutter, M (1999), Research and the Family Justice System: What has been the role of research and what should it be? Newsletter of the National Council for Family Proceedings, 15, 2-6

Shaw, M (1998) Childhood, Mental Health & the Law in the inpatient psychiatric treatment of children (eds, Jacobs, B and Green, J) London: Routledge.

Children who commit acts of serious interpersonal violence. Chapters 2 (Bailey, S) and 3 (Losel, F and Bender, D). Eds Hagell and Dent. Jessica Kingsley (2006)

Bailey, S., Vermeiren, R., & Mitchell, P. (2007). Mental health, risk and antisocial behaviour in young offenders: challenges and opportunities. In M.Blyth, E. Solomon, & K. Baker (Eds.), Young People and "Risk". (pp. 53-71). Bristol: Policy Press.

Bailey, S. & Kerlake, B. (2008). The process and systems for juveniles and young persons. In K.Soothill, P. Rogers, & M. Dolan (Eds.), Handbook of forensic mental health (pp. 89-123). Willan Publishing.

Kessler, C. & Kraus, L. (2007). The mental health needs of young offenders. Forging paths toward reintegration and rehabilitation. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Bailey, S., Doreleijers, T., & Tarbuck, P. (2006). Recent developments in mental health screening and assessment in juvenile justice systems. Child and Adolescent Psychiatric Clinics of North America, 15, 391-406

Bailey, S & Scott, S (2008) Treatment of Delinquents in Rutter, M et al (Eds)Text Book of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry 5th Edition. Cambridge University Press